

Mobile ad players Mercury, m.Net announce merger

Emerging mobile opportunities seen as driver

Rodney Gedda (Computerworld) 08 September, 2009 08:01:00

Tags: mobile marketing, mobile applications, m.Net, Mercury Mobility

Mobile marketing and content providers Mercury Mobility and m.Net Corporation have agreed to merge in a deal worth some 105,000,000 m.Net shares.

The combined group will continue to target the mobile marketing and content space by selling to mobile carriers, media companies and content and brand owners.

CEO of m.Net Corporation, Horden Wiltshire, will lead the combined company and Mercury Mobility's managing director, Ben Grootemaat, will become an executive director.

The agreement was signed by the three major shareholders of m.Net (Yahoo!7, Alcatel-Lucent and article words), and is conditional upon m.Net's minority shareholders also agreeing to sell their m.Net shares to Mercury at a general meeting in October.

After the merger, m.Net is expected to have net current assets of at least $700,000 and no financial debt, according to an ASX announcement by the two companies.

Wiltshire said the mobile market is growing quickly and the merger positions m.Net to take advantage of the emerging opportunities in the industry.

"Combined we have an enviable client list and our two workforces now become part of a larger, stronger organisation," he said.

Google starts serving up MySpa ...
"Google has started incorporating into its search results status updates that MySpace users have ..."

Grootemaat said the combination of Mercury's existing business in Canada and m.Net's work with Yahoo! in North America will provide a foothold to further expand in North America.

Yahoo!7 CEO, Rohan Lund, said audience demand continues to grow for mobile content and services and advertisers are looking for innovative mobile advertising and marketing solutions.

Related Articles

- Skyfire buys Kolbysoft to make an Android browser
- BlackBerry \(Finally\) Gets 'Official' Craigslist Mobile App
- Five Trends Influencing the CIO Smartphone Agenda
- Firefox Mobile arrives on Nokia N900 smartphones
- Google supports 'click-to-call' mobile ads
- Port of Los Angeles Fights Crime Fighting With Mobile Video
- Opera acquires mobile advertising company AdMarvel
- Ads to play bigger role in future mobile apps, says Gartner
- Fishy Android apps may have been malware, says researcher
- Palm opens up developer program, adds plug-in support

References

- TechWorld :: Mobile Marketing
- Computerworld :: Telstra

More about Yahoo, Alcatel, Telstra, Lucent

Comments

Post new comment

Your name:

E-mail:

The content of this field is kept private and will not be shown publicly.

Subject:

Comment: *

- Web page addresses and e-mail addresses turn into links automatically.
 - Allowed HTML tags: `` `` `` `<cite>` `<code>` `` `` `` `<dl>`
 - Lines and paragraphs break automatically.
- More information about formatting options